Old Orchard Beach is enrolling in the Community Resilience Partnership to better understand community priorities for addressing local climate change impacts and so the Town can pursue grant funding for priority projects that will make the community more resilient.

The Town of Old Orchard Beach is holding a community workshop for local residents, businesses, and organizations to discuss climate change impacts facing OOB and share thoughts about actions the town can take to address those impacts and enhance the community's resilience.

The Town hopes for a good turnout for this important workshop, but if you cannot attend there are still ways to participate. The workshop will be recorded and can be viewed on the Town's website. Also on the Town's website will be a link for your feedback and comment. The comment period will be through March 6th. For more information, please visit the Town's website or contact the Town Manager's office at 937-5626.
